PBRPC's Homeland Security Department, as designated by the Governor, serves as the lead entity for regional planning across the 17-county Permian Basin region. Each year, the region receives an allocation of federal homeland security funds through the Texas Division of Emergency Management. The Domestic Preparedness Advisory Committee (DPAC) develops recommendations on how these funds should be utilized to support regional preparedness goals. DPAC typically prioritizes projects that provide a regional impact and enhance the overall preparedness capabilities of the Permian Basin.
